

The Doctor

By Kitty Evers, MD

Able to weep for your youth
Able to weep for that sense of blessing at the first cry of new life
Able to weep for that time when you could stay up all night and still greet the new day
Able to smell the sweet green of grass
Able to see magic inside an ear
Able to weep at his story
Able to weep at her death
Able to be moved by tears and joy
Where has it all gone
Why are your pockets so empty
And where shall you go to come alive again... ❖
